“Here, my teachers are more like my friends, they listen to you, they don’t judge and they encourage you to be the best that you can be. Lessons are always presented in a fun and interesting way that encourages you to participate.

I hope one day to be a lawyer and own my own law firm, but not because of profit or celebrity status, but because I want to serve. Meeting people from all over the world has really opened my eyes to understand what makes us all different and to appreciate different cultures and views on life, which has also changed how I see the world.”
